

Dear Sir or Ma'am,

I am concerned for the future of the internet in the case of net neutrality. I want net neutrality. While I appreciate that a change in leader requires a re-evaluation of policy, it was clearly not President Obama who advocated for net neutrality, it was the millions of people who took time to express their opinions. Revisiting this policy is as undemocratic as it is financially motivated as it is unnecessary as it is silly. That is, very. Please consider my voice as an active voter when this policy is being revisited. I want net neutrality to remain.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Graham H. Myers
